

Mid-Market Map Update: 40 Projects Revitalizing the Area

By Michael Conrad

Last month, the 26 Mid-Market revitalization projects map came out to much fanfare. Reader tips and comments flooded in, so with some extra digging an updated map of Mid-Market revitalization projects came out a few weeks later. The tips keep coming and the map keeps expanding for San Francisco's hottest development and redevelopment neighborhood. Here now, an unprecedented third edition, featuring 40 projects. Additions include a former YMCA, a former television studio, and a former night club, all re-purposed for today's needs. If we still managed to miss one you know about, or you hear about a new development for this rapidly changing area, leave a comment after the jump or tip the tipline.

NEMA

This highrise community has been getting quite a bit of attention as it prepares to open its first buildings in October. When fully completed the tower will add 754 units to the intersection of 10th and Market.
